

Finding Cultural Capital

Does this mean the same for all of us?

Deputy and Assistant Headteachers' Conference 2021

Hosted online on Friday, 19 March 2021, 09.00 - 15.15

INTRODUCTION

Welcome to the 2021 Deputy and Assistant Headteachers' Conference.

This one day conference will feature knowledge and ideas about Cultural Capital from a range of perspectives amidst the changing global and local landscape.

Internationally renowned speakers will share current thinking about Cultural Capital giving attendees a range of approaches they can use in their schools.

The day will start with a keynote address followed by workshops, promising to provoke thinking and showcase how collaboration creates possibilities for improving outcomes and promoting cultural capital.

Participants will be challenged to:

- reflect and think critically about cultural capital
- drive excellence through curriculum organisation and inclusive practices
- explore the concepts of character development, resilience and well-being

GUEST SPEAKERS

Phil Beadle

Phil is an award winning teacher, broadcaster, journalist and author of many books including one entitled 'Rules of Mavericks: a Manifesto for the Disobedient'! He is an inspirational speaker who has a track record of success in supporting schools and teachers in challenging circumstances and it quickly becomes clear why he won the national teacher of the year award. Phil will be speaking and leading discussions particularly around creativity in the curriculum.

Dr Nira Chamberlain

Nira is about to become the President of the Institute of Mathematics. In 2018 he was the winner of the world's most interesting mathematician award. He was the highest new entrant in the 2018 power list, also holding the title of the 5th most influential black person in the UK. Nira will be talking about the importance of mathematics for all and outline his route to his present position. With his 25 years' experience and an international reputation Nira is a fascinating and challenging speaker

Professor Mel Ainscow CBE

Mel is a Professor of Education at the University of Manchester. He is Co-Director of the Centre for Equity in Education as well as being a well-known author on improving education. Mel has been a specialist government advisor on education for many years. His work on effective school improvement is widely recognised. He will provide an up to date narrative on changing education systems based on a research evidence and collaboration

Into Film

Into Film puts film at the heart of the educational and personal development of children and young people across the UK. It aims to give every young person between the ages of 5-18 the chance to experience film creatively. Into Film supports teachers and educators to achieve a wide range of effective learning outcomes in their use of film. Their programme includes a network of extra-curricular film clubs, resources for use in clubs and in the classroom training, a cinema-based film festival and an annual Awards Event. This is particularly pertinent in the light of character education and cultural capital emphasis in the new inspection framework.
